

As President of the Adecco Group US Foundation, Joyce Russell is committed to making the future work for everyone. The Foundation launched in January 2019 and focuses on upskilling and reskilling American workers, and helping to ensure work equality for all.

Joyce has firmly established her reputation and passion for working with people and providing new opportunities for both employees and companies. She constantly strives for growth both personally and professionally, while remaining focused on work-related programs, partnerships, and investments that create greater economic opportunity for American workers.

In 1987, Joyce joined Adecco as a Branch Manager in Charlotte, North Carolina. From 2004-2018, she served as the President of Adecco Staffing U.S., leading the largest business unit of Adecco Group North America, with more than 450 branch locations, approximately 1,800 colleagues and a diverse portfolio of clients.

Joyce is a panelist and participant at the World Economic Forum in Davos and Fortune's Most Powerful Women Summits. She is on the Board of Directors of the American Staffing Association, a member of Paradigm for Parity, Committee of 200, International Women's Forum, and Women Corporate Directors.

Joyce holds a degree in business and communications from Baylor University.
